Deputy Regional Administrators

With the Presidential transition well underway, I want to review plans for the transition in leadership at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. As indicated on EPA's transition intranet site, the EPA will continue to be led and managed by the current leadership team until noon on January 20, 2017.

After the inauguration, it is likely that career EPA senior managers will serve in acting roles for the assistant, associate and regional administrator positions until new appointed leaders are in place. Attached is a list of the EPA senior managers who will assume these acting roles in the respective EPA offices. This information, as well as the latest information on the transition, will be posted on the EPA's transition intranet site so that it is available to all staff. The acting senior officials in the Administrator's office, including the acting Administrator and Deputy Administrator, will be announced soon.

Thank you for your continued commitment to ensuring that the transition is as smooth and efficient as possible.
